WE NOMINATE

Eric Frederick Goldman, a brilliant observer of the passing scene, gifted historian and Special Consultant to The White House, whose capacities for etching mindcatching conceptions are being accentuated by the growing usage of his term for the rising American generation, the "Metroamericans.' At a time in the nation's history when service workers are actually beginning to outnumber production workers, and the white collar is overtaking the blue, this 50-year old Princetonian feels that the rural American of yesteryear and the urban American of today is giving way to an American belonging neither to town nor city but to the ballooning metropolitan areas and their ways of life.

As Goldman, a Princeton resident for the past quarter-century and probably the University's "most popular" lecturer of the post-World War II era, sees it: "Today the United States is undergoing a change so significant that the shift deserves the word 'revolution.' We are, more and more, an affluent nation. We are a people who live increasingly in metropolitan areas. . . . We are daily becoming younger. . . . We are better and better educated. . . . This youthful, educated, comfortably fixed man or woman is a new American, the Metroamerican, with a quite different idea of the kind of life he wants to lead and the kind of country in which he wants to live"

This week, in a nationally distributed, slick-magazine essay, Goldman, moderator of the TV discussion program, "The Open Mind," suggests that the jungle of commercial TV can be conquered by the interests and tastes of the Metroamericans who "have a sweeping vista of what life could be, and it concerns both large and small matters. They are impatient with banality, sentimentality, and sanctimoniousness, and they are leery of prepackaged solutions to anything." These new Americans, Goldman contends, are pushing for a "heightened sensitivity in human relations and a greater variety and tang and lilt in the way Americans spend their time" — with television or otherwise.

In 1964 Goldman, a native of Washington, D. C., and a Johns Hopkins Ph.D. at age 22, was named an adviser to President Johnson. The White House described his appointment as a "unique approach to channel the nation's best thinking to The White House" and stressed that he is to "help maintain a continuous flow of specific proposals, general approaches and opinions from a wide range of experts outside the Government." In a very real sense this assignment recognized the depth and scope of Goldman's interests, ranging from the presidency of the Society of American Historians to his receipt of TV "Emmys," and to his prize-winning volumes and a steady stream of magazine articles.

The first appointee to the Rollins Professorship of History and one of the first four faculty members to receive one of the University's highest honors, a McCosh Fellowship, Goldman is the author of two of the major historical works of his time, "Rendezvous with Destiny: A History of Modern American Reform," and "The Crucial Decade, America 1945-1955." He took his advanced degrees at Johns Hopkins without benefit of an undergraduate diploma, taught for seven years at Hopkins and came to Princeton in 1942, four years before co-authoring a high school textbook which has since sold well over a half-million copies.

For sensing that his "Metroamericans" may well bring into being "the most exciting civilization in all of man's history;" for his achievements as a teacher-scholar in three dimensions—classroom, printed page and television; for his rare understanding of the phenomena which are America; he is our nominee as

BULLISH, IN WINDSOR

Stock Exchanged Wooed. The market is bullish these days in West Windsor Township.

The fat Township on the other side of the lake has been reading about Mayor John Lindsay of New York and his plan to tax stock market transactions, and the New York Stock Exchange's panicky reaction, "Let's get out of town!"

Where "out of town" but to West Windsor?

Louis Golden, who happens to own land along Route One in West Windsor about two miles south of the Penns Neck circle, has written to Keith Funston, president of the Exchange, to suggest that perhaps . . .?

The Princeton Chamber of Commerce — the GREATER Princeton Chamber of Commerce — is very much interested, too. Its board of directors was scheduled to meet in executive session this Wednesday to decide what the Chamber might say in its own letter to the Exchange.

"The Logical Place." "We figure we have nothing to lose," said B. H. Lenhart, Chamber president, this week, "West Windsor is really the only logical place around here, and in our letter we hope to present to the Exchange the 'area image' — research, education and all that."

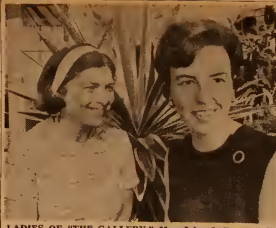
Mr. Lenhart added that the Chamber might decide to promote West Windsor as a good disaster-protection area where the Stock Exchange could have maximum securities, so to speak.

He also suggested that, even if the Exchange doesn't move to West Windsor lock, stock and barrel, it might decide the township is a fine place for a master computer center. And Dow Jones, of course, is just up the road.

Mayor Malcolm Roszel of West Windsor has been in touch with Mr. Golden, but West Windsor's Township Committee hasn't taken any official action yet, and according to Committeeman William Stuart, doesn't necessarily plan to.

Depending on the niceties of whatever law Mr. Lindsay is able to achieve, the essential thing for the Exchange would be to pluck away from New York City the actual stock transaction itself. The spot where the trade takes place is what would have to go. Main offices could certainly remain in New York.

West Windsor and the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council are not, of course, alone in their desire to provide a friendly home for your friendly New York Stock Exchange. The pile of letters is "that high,"



LADIES OF "THE GALLERY:" Mrs. John J. Burns (left) and Mrs. George J. Adriance are chairmen of "The Gallery" at the forthcoming April Annual of the Association of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. The Gallery will have, for display and sale, the works of Princeton area artists and craftsmen. Story in Topics of the Town.

but as Mr. Lenhart — and presumably Mr. Golden — says, "What have we got to lose."

MILLER PLAN? NO

From Township Board. "It builds in a continuing separateness," said the Township School Board of the Borough Board's Miller Plan on Thursday night.

"Our unanimous conclusion is that we cannot accept the Miller Plan as submitted, for the reason that it fails to meet the educational aims of the Township School Board; that it does not provide a kindergarten - through - 12th - grade school system with one board and one superintendent."

Specifically, in its formal statement, the Township Board said the Miller plan, far from being a K-12 merger, is an arrangement for two separate school systems, K-8, and a third 9-12. "It achieves only a joint high school."

The Township also pointed out that the veto power each elementary board would have over its own budget, would remove control of a large part of the budget from the parent board, depriving the system of flexibility of staff and building use and freedom of pupil allocation.

"These are serious encroachments on the powers of the parent board, and the superintendent, the Township states, "and would result in serious administrative difficulties and educational deficiencies."

Cites Long Study. Remarking informally on the Board's reaction to the Miller proposal, president George Grace said, "We aren't shooting from the hip."

He was referring to the Board's lengthy study of the plan from the time the Township received it in draft form last December, through study of a second draft in February and joint meeting with Borough school people at the end of February.

During this meeting in February, the Township Board statement said, "Township Board members asked questions and pointed up the Plan's drawbacks as we saw them."

Early in March, the Board pointed out, both Boards met to discuss the possibility of a Citizens' Advisory Panel on merger and at this time, the Township expressed its concern on merger, especially the implementation of the Miller Plan. The two boards met again only two weeks ago, and the Miller proposals were discussed then also.

(For an early reaction to the Township Board's Miller announcement, see "Mailbox," pages 30 and 31.)

The Board on Thursday night did its legal part in ratifying the establishment of that Merger Panel.

"We feel this is a technique for expediting the matter," Mr. Grace explained. "We can go to the Township and give reasons for accepting the course of action we take."

"It will give a clear picture which we can compare with the report of the Township high school committee," Board member Herbert Bailey observed. "We can weight both and decide."

Can I Go, Too? In the usual housekeeping business of a school board, the Township Board voted to allow a dozen Valley Road youngsters from John Millard's Special Class to spend five days at Stokes State Forest studying conservation, and decided after lengthy discussion to allow a lot-chosen group of 25 other children to go along, too. Everybody's $22 fee will be paid from school funds.

The discussion rose after Mr. Bailey said "What about this $22 fee and the kids who can't afford it?"

Holland protested that the week would be top-heavy with science — he teaches English at the University — and Board member Mrs. George Fremon said she thought the expedition was a great idea and that a pilot group should be picked to attend at Board expense. (Originally, the whole 125 seventh-grade class had been slated to go.)

Superintendent John J. McKenna said bravely that he would work out a system for choosing the lucky boys and girls who wanted to go by a drawing of some kind.

Twelve staff members with three years' "satisfactory service" were given tenure. They are: Janice Hagood, Ralph Heyman, Virginia Keshel, Barbara Mink, Kathryn Michael, Isabel Mielke, Penelope Murray, Evelyn Shaw, Elaine Solomon, Sandra Tarr, Patricia Van Ness and Margaret Pazdan.

Three sabbaticals were granted for teachers to pursue full time graduate study at Rutgers. Teachers and their fields are: Marion C. Kimberly (reading); Edwin C. Campion (social science); Eugene Doherty (school administration).

An architectural selection committee for a possible Township High School was appointed. It will consist of C. Holmes Perkins, Dean of the Graduate School of Fine Arts, University of Pennsylvania; Alvin Gershen, Nelson Tower, Joseph Hachleder and Board members Charles Jaffin and Leonard Hymerling.

The Board also agreed to sustain two "late bus" routes on a two-month experimental basis to transport children who stay after school for sports and various extra-curricular pursuits.

TO EXPAND SCHOOL

In West Windsor. Plans to nearly double the size of the Maurice Hare Elementary School, West Windsor Township, have been approved by the Board of Education. A referendum on the $600,000 project will be held on May 12, preceeded by a public hearing on May 3.

The expansion, designed by architects Micklewright and Mountford of Trenton, calls for 13 additional classrooms, three kindergarten rooms, a combination art and music room, a new physical education room, an assistant pro-

The 28,000 square-foot addition is to be located in the rear of the present $700,000 structure. Construction costs are estimated at $17.50 per foot.

The $600,000 bond issue includes $28,000 for expanded sewage facilities, $17,500 for fire detection equipment for the entire district school, and $8,000 for similar fire equipment at the Dutch Neck School.

SKIP THE SHOTS

And Send Him Back. West Windsor Township Board of Education voted 7-2 on Monday to re-admit Charles Flickinger, 5, to kindergarten without immunization shots.

He was barred from school last September after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Flickinger of Scott Avenue, refused to have him immunized against small pox and other contagious diseases.

William Baggitt, board attorney, stated that the board could not legally exclude the boy as long as his parents based their objection on religious grounds. The Flickingers claim that their faith in the "healing science of chiropractic" constitutes their personal religious principle.

When the board questioned whether a faith in chiropractic was a true religious belief, Mr. Baggitt said the board could not legally assume the duty of defining religion. John R. Janick and C. Lance Marshall Jr. both opposed the vote. They argued that the Flickingers first raised the religious question this month.

TO DELAY PRIMARIES

Until September 13. The New Jersey legislature has a bill before it to change the primary election date from June 7 to September 13, eight weeks before general election time.

Cause of the move is the inability of Democratic leaders to draft a Congressional redistricting bill and get it passed by the legislature in time for a June 7 primary.

The switch means that all candidates would not need to file petitions until July 28.

UFO HERE?

Police Get First Call. UFOs—unidentified flying objects—are increasingly in the news today with reports of sightings in various parts of the country. This week, the initials UFO appeared for the first time in the Township police docket when Mrs. Arthur Bayless of Washington Street, Rocky Hill, called Tuesday morning at 4:30 to report seeing a strange light in the sky south of Rocky Hill.

Mrs. Bayless told TOWN TOPICS she woke up and wondered who had turned on a light brighter than the new street light that had been installed recently next to the hotel on the corner. Looking out her window, she said, she saw a bright object off in the sky more to the south than east.

"It was real brilliant, more like daylight" she said. "It looked like what we've been hearing and seeing on television and in the newspapers. It was oblong with a little question mark of light drizzling down from the bottom and one coming out on the top. The one on the bottom was about twice as long as the one on top."

"It looked as if someone had drawn a line through a blot of water", she said. "Nothing came out from the sides."

In the center was a turquoise light, more blue than green. Asked if it appeared to be moving fast, Mrs. Bayless replied: "It didn't move, it hovered — just like those on TV and radio. It looked like it was a long way off, not extremely close.

"My husband and I looked at it for 10 minutes and then went back to bed. We couldn't tell what it was. It could have been a star but my husband said, 'if it was, it was a whale of a big star'."

"It was real interesting," Mrs. Bayless concluded. "I wish someone else had seen it."

"He claims they're expected at a Wine-Tasting."

Other Sightings Noted. Elsewhere in New Jersey, the past week has brought numerous reports of unidentified objects, some of the descriptions—and the time of day—tallying with that in Rocky Hill.

In Passaic, a dozen policemen on night duty said that between 4 and 5:50 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, they had seen "something that definitely wasn't a star and didn't look like a plane." In Breton Woods, Ocean County, an Air Force veteran and his son spotted a bright light in the sky around 4:30 Sunday morning.

They notified neighbors, and one woman said she saw the same thing Sunday morning, observing it for almost two hours before it disappeared about 6:10. It was described as having a kind of rim around it, with a core that looked like an old fashioned light bulb which was ready to flicker out."

One observer trained a telescope on the UFO, which he said was difficult to see with the naked eye. The telescopic lens, he reported, "made it look like a lemon with bumps on each end."

LOWBIDDER WINS

Township Garbage. Julius Huntley, incumbent garbage collector for the Township, won the job again for 1966 after a hearing held Monday night before Township Committee.

Mr. Huntley's low bid of $10,300 was subjected to the hearing after Administrator Joseph R. Nini told Committee last week that many Township residents had complained about Mr. Huntley's performance as a garbage collector.

Before rejecting any low bidder, Committee must hold a hearing and give the bidder a chance to explain his case. On Monday night, Mr. Huntley described for Committee his mechanical troubles with his two trucks and his two — but sometimes only one — helpers.

For a time, following a motion by Committeeman Walter B. Foster, Committee was inclined to table the bid and discuss in executive session Mr. Huntley's apparent difficulties with a finance company. However, Committeeman Burton Peskin gave a brusque and contemptuous description of the finance company involved and told Committee this was a private Huntley matter which should not influence the bid.

"I Promise." "We're giving you a vote of confidence," Committeeman William Wilson told Mr. Huntley after Committee unanimously voted to renew his contract. "Deliver for us, will you?"

And Mr. Huntley promised he would.

The two other bidders, Stanley Sibert and Princeton Disposal, also presented their cases. Mr. Sibert's charge of minor legal irregularity in opening the bids was cancelled out when attorney Gordon Griffin told him his own bid was not in order. Mr. Griffin also corrected Princeton Disposal's impression that a bidding irregularity had occurred, and the bid went to Mr. Huntley.

In a race to see who will dive in first, Committee introduced the $100,000 ordinance for swimming pool parking, tennis shed, electric cables in case of a decision for night tennis games, and so on. Committee hopes the parking lot will be finished when the pool is. This completes the current phase of Community Park expenditures. Public hearing April 18.

"It's a compromise that pleases both Committee and Planning Board," observed Mayor Carl C. Schafer when the revised amended zoning ordinance was introduced Monday night.

CAR ROLLS OVER

Fallowing Intersection Crash. Mrs. Ruth Henssler, 55, of Ringoes, was treated at Princeton Hospital Tuesday morning for contusions and abrasions received when her car rolled over following an accident at the intersection of Cleveland Lane and Elm Road Ptl. Arthur Jackson, the investigating officer, decribed her 1966 car as a "total loss

Police said the 8:25 a.m mishap was triggered when Mrs. Henssler failed to stop for the stop sign at the foot of Rosedale. She entered the intersection — one of the Borough's most accident prone — and was hit in the side by a car driving on Elm, operated by A. Louis Shor, 42, of Blawenburg.

Police quoted Mrs Henssler as saying she slowed down but wasn't sure she had stopped, on They charged her with a stop sign violation.

Yun S Shen, 21, of the Graduate College, sustained a minor injury to his left hand Friday afternoon when he was thrown from his bike to the pavement

Police said the victim was riding on William Street when he ran into the left front door of a parked car which was being opened by Raymond Mondone, 61, of 274 Hamilton Avenue. Sgt. Arthur Gallant investigated.

Low Clearance. Mrs. James Wei, 35, Broadripple Drive received minor scratches Sunday afternoon when her head was thrown against the windshield of a car her husband was driving on Wendover Drive

Police said Mr. Wei told them he thought he could successfully straddle a manhole cover in the middle of Wendover Drive, but the frame of the car hit the cover, causing it to come to a sudden stop Three children, age 8, 7, and 5, in the rear seat were uninjured.

Harry W Morton Jr., 22, 274 Alexander Street, was checked at Princeton Hospital for pains in the lower back which he received as a result of a single-car mishap Thursday afternoon at 3:28 on Springdale Road.

Mr. Morton told police that just after turning onto Springdale from College Road, a severe headache caused his to become dizzy and lightheaded He tried to pull off to the right.

Instead his car continued on about a mile before wedging itself between two concrete walls leading to a large culvert at Springdale and Hardin Road. Police made no charges.

Another single car accident early last week in the Township involved Marie H. Thompson, 19, of Cranbury.

Miss Thompson was driving alone shortly before midnight on Washington Road when her car left the road near Faculty Road and struck a back-hoe, an excavating machine The impact drove the back hoe into a traffic light pole, snapping it off at its base.

Miss Thompson was taken to Princeton Hospital and ad-

It's April Fool"

Spring came and left early this year, it seems After a pleasant offering of mild weather in mid-March, it's been a lot more like winter ever since spring arrived on the calendar.

A change for the better isn't immediately in sight. The rain at mid-week is scheduled to be followed by more about Sunday, and nothing that has been said to the thermometer is likely to persuade it to move sharply upward as April arrives mitted for treatment of multiple head lacerations. She told police she may have dozed momentarily, as she could not explain what happened.

Weiss, budget vice-president; Arthur N. Curtiss, campaign vice-president; Theodore David, assistant campaign chairman; John C. Yeomen, treasurer; Gilbert C. Turner, assistant treasurer; William E. Vice-president for various areas served by the Fund will be Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward, Princeton; Joseph F. Catelli, Kingston-Rocky Hill; Lawrence Ivins, Hightstown; James MacKenzie 2nd, West Windsor-Cranbury; and Frank W. Johnson, Montgomery. Robert P. Popino is chairman of the nominating committee.

CHURCH GIVEN APPROVAL To Build Additions. The Borough Zoning Board last week granted permission to the First Baptist Church, Green and John Streets, to construct a new entrance and Sunday School addition.

William Daggitt, attorney for the church, agreed that it failed to comply with several zoning requirements but pointed out that the proposed Jackson Street realignment will take from what little land the church has left on which to build. In granting its approval, the Board stipulated it was subject to agreement between the church and the Borough on the exchange of land to facilitate the alignment.

During his testimony Mr. Daggitt had said that he did not believe that additional traffic would be generated by the expansion. He added that parking space for Sunday services would continue to be available at the adjacent Palmer Square parking lot.

In another case, Carnegie Building Inc. 221 Nassau Street, was granted a conditional go-ahead to proceed with its plans to convert 1,024 square feet of its basement into additional office space.

The Board ruled that the firm's intention to provide three off-street parking places located at the rear of 209 Nassau Street would satisfy parking requirements, but that the owners could not merely rent the spaces as planned but would have to obtain a deed covenant to guarantee the spaces would always be available.

The three spaces, within the required 400 feet of the building, would be paved and lighted, according to Mr. Baggitt, attorney for the owners. The arrangement must also be approved by the Planning Board for this 9-pound capacity top-loading "automatic" washer. It washed your clothes. It turned off "automatically". Period.

You may be paying more for butter and eggs today than you were 15 years ago, but if you think everything costs more nowadays, you're in for a pleasant surprise. Just to prove our point, we dusted off our advertising files for 1951 — and look what we found! On this page we show a washer that was advertised in 1951. When you compare the "features" and price of this vintage model with our spanking new 1966 G.E. washer, we'll bet you'll be amazed. Of course you're aware of the revolutionary technical improvements that have developed over the years — even though you may take them for granted . . . BUT, did you realize that major appliance prices have been steadily DECREASING? Today you get a far superior appliance, yet you may pay over one hundred and fifty dollars LESS for it! Who says things were better in the Good Old Days? You never had it so good!

in 1966 here's what Mrs. "G" offers!

Oriental and Domestic rug sales by appointment
Professional service of all rugs and carpets

When shopping for a carpet or rug, start with color. Color is so important when it's seen in a big area, such as the floor. And, decoratively speaking, you want color to do "the most" for each room.

The color of your carpet should be practical. No other item of home furnishings gets walked on every day—and you don't want the quick appearance of soil to mar the beauty of your carpet or rug. This doesn't mean that you have to resign yourself to dull, nondescript colors!

All of the wonderful carpet colors available today can be found in one of just seven basic color groups of "color families:" The blues, greens, golds, reds, grays, beiges and browns. Within each color family there are many variations, from light to dark, in solid colors or subtle mixtures of hue.

If, for example, you like light colors and want to use them in a heavy-traffic area where soiling might be a problem — you'll find styles with a "two-tone" mixture of one color. These "tweedy" variations are practical underfoot — they don't show soil so readily—and can add interest to a decorating scheme.

Be bold with color! You can plan a variety of wonderful decorating schemes with carpet as your starting point. Color can make a room appear larger or smaller, warmer or cooler—and add to your constant enjoyment of your carpet or rug.

At E. Bahadurian & Son, with our many years experience in caring for rugs, we feel qualified to assist and advise you in the selection of rugs and carpets for your home. We have the facilities to handle any carpet job, room-size or wall-to-wall.

Both our Oriental rug sales and service and our domestic carpet sales and service are conducted by appointment only. This ensures that you are seen personally when you come to our showroom.

In criminal court, Melvin J. Best, 22, 51 Leigh Avenue, charged with stealing a wheel from a car, waived a preliminary hearing. His case will be heard before a grand jury.

Larry Brooks, 13 Shirely Court, a companion of Best charged with the same offense, failed to appear in court.

FOR PRINCETON YOUTH: Secondary school heads met on Friday at Princeton High School to discuss the students' hoped-for lounge. Flanking Rev. Mother Joan Kirby of the Stuart School are Dr. Paul R. Oesterle, Princeton High School, Rogers Carrington (extreme right), head of Youth Associates, (formerly Young Life) and Donald Barr, executive director of the Borough-Township Joint Recreation Department also attended the session. (Staff Photo)

The Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended the licences of three area drivers for speeding:

They are R. Braddock Dinsmore, 63, Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, and Dennis Bacon, 22, Griswold House, Lawrenceville, both one month, and Theresa Pragliola, 32, 292 Burd Road, Pennington, 30 days.

LEGAL AID SOCIETY?

Bar Assn. Investigating. The need for a branch of the Legal Aid Society in Princeton is being investigated by a Princeton Bar Association committee composed of Kester Pierson, chairman; Henry S. Broad and Joseph L. Stonaker.

According to Mr. Pierson, the inquiry is a result of an increasing number of requests for legal aid which have come to the Family Service Agency. The committee will report to the bar association in April.

The Mercer County Bar Association maintains a Legal Aid office in Trenton, Mr. Pierson said, but a Princeton need is growing apparent. A Princeton office, if established, would be a place where people can call "at any time of day." Attorneys, donating their time, would screen inquiries, supplying individuals able to afford their own attorney with a list of Princeton lawyers. Low income families would be given legal assistance.

Recent court decisions on legal aid, he noted, have brought the matter to the forefront. Neighborhood law offices are being established in Trenton by the Office of Economic Opportunity. A number of bills revising the public defender system are being studied by the legislature. The Princeton bar, he said, "will probably take a position on one of the bills when we know what they are."

SPRING DANCE PLANNED

By University League. A spring dance sponsored by the Princeton University League will be held Saturday from 9:30 to 1:30 a.m. at the Chancellor Green Student Center. Mrs. Charles DeMoss, chairman, reports that reservations are still available.

Other committee members are Mrs. Herman Somer, co-chairman; Mrs. Eugene Gilespie, decorations; Mrs. William Summers, Mrs. D. M. Betterton and Mrs. Glenn Paige.

READY FOR APRIL?

"Annual" Is Coming. A bright green and white striped tent will be the focal point for the 12th "April Annual" of the Association of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, set for Tuesday, April 26 on the Institute grounds.

COPPER TUBING STOLEN

Churches Target, Too. The war in Viet Nam has created a shortage in copper, and enterprising thieves are meeting the demand by stealing it wherever they can.

Twenty lengths of three-quarter inch copper tubing valued at $84 were reported stolen last week from a plumbing shed located at the construction site of the Astro-Physics Lab which Princeton University is erecting near Palmer Stadium. Police, who reported the theft occurred sometime last Thursday night, said a window of the shed had been broken to gain entry.

The following morning, Father Henry of St. Paul's Church called police to report that during the night, someone had stolen several copper rain spouts. Three 10-foot sections were missing from the convent, three from the rectory and nine from the church.

Police, in checking other churches in the area, noticed that portions of spouts had also been taken from the Methodist Church at the corner of Nassau and Vandeveater. A check with the Rev. Leon Gibson disclosed that nine sections, ranging from 5 to 10 feet, were gone.

Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that it was the first time his department has had any reports of stolen copper in many years. He attributed it to the "premium on copper today. Plumbers can't get it these days," he said. "These crooks will melt down what they've taken and get a good price for it."

Ronald Beall, a student at Princeton University, reported the theft of a $175 typewriter from a hallway in 1903 Hall where he had left it, and Warren Buklar of New York City called police last week to report the loss of an $80 camera taken from his car. He told police that he had parked it in a University lot at Olden and William Streets. He added that one of the car doors had a faulty lock.

REFUNDS DELAYED?

IRS Explains Why. A statement by the Internal Revenue Service this week lists various reasons why taxpayers experience delays in receiving refunds to which they are entitled.

The statement follows.

"Thousands of New Jersey taxpayers had their federal tax refunds held up last year because they forgot to send in certain statements required to complete their 1040's.

"The statement forgotten most often was the one needed to claim the sick pay exclusion. Form 2440 should be used for this statement.

"Special forms are available for certain deductions, credits and exclusions claimed on Form 1040. These forms are noted on Form 1040 and explained in the instruction booklet.

"When a required statement is omitted, the taxpayer has to be contacted, told of the missing statement and asked to supply it. Until it has been received from the taxpayer IRS cannot process any refund due

"Other forms available for required statements with the 1040 are Form 2106 for moving expenses, Form 2106 for employee business expenses and Form 2950SE for payments by self-employed persons to retirement plans.

"To avoid delay in the processing of returns — and refunds — taxpayers should check their returns to see whether they are complete before they mail them in. Besides being sure that all required statements are attached, the following items should be reviewed:

"1—Is the Social Security number correctly listed?

"2—Are all W-2 forms enclosed?

School Population

The estimated high school population in Princeton Township in 1974-5, eight years from now, was incorrectly given in last week's issue of Town Topics as 2,059. A more accurate projection, based on the Joint School Boards' Report ("Blue Book") giving 1,239 as the guestimate for 1970-71, would be 1,888 high school pupils in 1974-5.

LIVING WITH ANTIQUES

Two "Houses" on View. A complete town house and a complete country house will be laid out on the floor of the Princeton Day School's gymnasium for the Princeton Antiques Show sponsored by the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey.

The show will be held this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, opening at noon Thursday and Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday. Homemade food from Wellesley Club members will be on sale at The Buttery. Baby sitting will be provided.

A formal Williamsbury-style garden, 10 by 20 feet, will be a feautre of the Town House. Executed by Kale's Nursery, Carter Road, this Garden Solarium will have spring bulbs in flowers (100 hyacinths, 150 tulips) and flowering shrubs in bloom around a flagstone patio.

Azaleas, perennial candytuft and rhododendrons, an edging of American boxwood and two large flowering soulangeana magnolias will be arranged against a white trellis. The focal point will be a carved stone statue of spring.

Everything in the garden, including the statue, will be for sale. Gardeners may also buy, from the Country House, potted herbs.

The Princeton Decorating Shop is coordinating the rooms of the two houses, using special wallpapers designed for the Show. All rooms will be furnished with authentic antiques and all antiques will be for sale.

Beauty ON THE SQUARE

I strongly feel that a hairstyle can either make or break a woman. Hair and the way it is styled is the one single thing that does the most for a woman, and all women should wear their hair to their best advantage.

Beauty and fashion go together and you really can't have one without the other. For example, a lovely dress and unattractive hair are a waste. Women should be more aware of their looks and their total effect from head to toe.

There's so much that is exciting to look at today, and the eye is so responsive — that it takes more and more ingenuity to identify one's self.

Women need all the help they can get for an up-to-date hair style — one that is best suited to the shape of their face and their personality.

For knowledge in styling, treat your hair to perfection at TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY MANOR, 69 Palmer Square West, or call 924-3983. Remember, all eyes go to your head frist . . . So, make sure your hair is properly styled!

Where Service Counts

There's a good answer!

No matter what the problem — or how vexing the situation — there's always a good answer. And it's basically spiritual. Often it depends on how we answer the question "Who Is Your Maker?" Hear a public lecture on this subject by HERBERT E. RIEKE, C.S.B., of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Everyone is welcome.

DEBBIE WINN

In Metropolitan Audition, Debbie Trunzi of 14 Madison Street, a typist clerk in RCA's patent department, was one of five finalist selected by the Metropolitan Opera on Sunday for a year's study with the Metropolitan Opera Studio.

"Gosh, it was just a shot in the dark" exclaims Debbie. "The Met ran this ad and I wrote in for an application blank — just as a lark, really."

She sang on February 15 in the first preliminary auditions, then moved to the Eastern Regionals on March 1, the Eastern Regional finals on March 3, and then suddenly I was in the semi-finals and then the finals!"

The winning aria for the lyric coloratura was "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto." "I'd sung it often, of course," Debbie explains, "but it wasn't my choice of an aria to sing in the finals. For the semi-finals, they had me sing the Bell Song from Delibes' 'Lakme.' That wasn't my choice either!"

Last in Line. Debbie's finalist performance on Sunday was made in the trouper tradition of the theatre. Coached with the other finalists on Friday, Debbie began to develop cold and flu systems, and although the Met. coaches sent her to their doctor, there wasn't much the doctor could do.

On Sunday, with cold and flu to contend with, she found she was last on the program, and she had to sit through all 13 singers before her own turn came at last.

She sang the "Caro Nome" and at the end, she decided to take high E, which is an option in the Verdi aria. She went for it and she made it. According to Mrs. Frank Sebley, of Princeton Opera Association who was there, the high note come clear and true and went sailing out freely over the audience.

When the finals were over, John Gutman, the Met.'s assistant manager in charge of the Opera Studio, said: "None of these finalists will get out of our clutches!"

Debbie has also been invited by Mr. Gutman to take the six-weeks intensive advanced training in June and Debbie says "Absolutely!" when asked if she will accept the invitation.

P.O.A. Alumna. A slim, pretty 24-year-old, Debbie is known to Princeton audiences for two P.J.&B. productions: "Showboat" in 1964 and "Wonderful Town" last year. This year, she will be Tuptim in "The King and I" for P.J.&B.

She has participated in Princeton Opera Association Workshops ever since the association was formed, and for the Opera group she has sang in portions of "Carmen" and "Traviata" and in "The Old Maid and the Theft."

In the days of Princeton Gilbert and Sullivan productions a few years back, she sang in "Mikado," "The Sorcerer" and "Yeoman of the Guard" and for many seasons she has been a soloist with the Princeton Society of Musical Ameteurs. In February of this year, she was soloist in the Haydin "Teresa" Mass when the Princeton and Goucher Glee Clubs sang here.

A native of Columbus, she is the daughter of musical parents and she made her debut at the age of three singing "Away in a Manger" in a Christmas pageant.

She came to Princeton in 1960 to attend Westminster Choir College and remained there for a year. She studied voice privately with Mrs. Lorean Hodapp and then at Westminster with Mrs. Hodapp.

Her most recent teacher was Charles Reeding of New York who taught her for three years. She is now looking for another teacher. Her work with the Opera Studio will be in the coaching side; that is, he will learn many new roles, but she will have to continue the study of vocal technique outside the Studio.

Will all this be full time

CHAMBER GROUP PLAYS

Guitarists as Soloists. On Monday night, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi, presented the second of three programs at McCarter Theatre. The program included Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D, Elegie for Strings by Mathilde McKinney, two concerti for two guitars and strings, one by Haydn and the other by Vivaldi, both in the key of G Major, and the Sinfonia II for String Orchestra and Flue, Op. 53 by Paul Mueller.

Soloists in the Bach were Helen Kwalwasser, violin; John Wummer, flute, and Igor Kipnis, harpsichord. The duo guitar team of Presti and Lagoya were the featured soloists in the two guitar concerti.

This reviewer can readily understand and even appreciate the necessity of presenting soloists on an orchestral program but Mr. Harsanyi's concerts in the past and again this evening suffered from too much soloistic display and very little orchestral playing.

The Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 is, with the exception of a few small tutti sections, basically a work of chamber music proportions and features the three soloists, especially the harpsichord, in a variety of expressive, dynamic and colorful passages. This also could have represented the "concerto" element for one evening. The novelty of music for classical guitar and orchestra, however, is certainly worthy of our attention, but the programming of two concerti for this combination on one evening's concert, plus the Bach Concerto proved to be a little too much.

The Haydn is a very weak work, not worth programming under any conditions. The Vivaldi, on the other hand, was a far superior composition, dramatically written for the two solo guitars and filled with interesting and captivating musical material. Presti and Lagoya played magnificently and the Vivaldi alone was worth the price of admission.

The Elegie for Strings by Mathilde McKinney is a very fine composition. It is well written, beautifully conceived and developed and furthermore, it is inspired. This work deserves more hearings.

The Sinfonia II for String Orchestra and Flue by Paul Mueller, the Swiss composer, may not be great music but it is attractive and well-shaped from beginning to end. The orchestra for the first time during the concert finally was able to demonstrate its powers of expression, and they are considerable.

Were it not for the slightly uneven performance of the Brandenburg Concerto, and the inclusion of the poor Haydn concerto, this concert would have been more stimulating, if less novel.

PIANO RECITAL TUESDAY

At Westminster Campus. Dr. Peter Wright, piano instructor at Westminster Choir College, will give a piano recital Tuesday evening at 8 at the campus Playhouse.

Dr. Wright's program will include works by Gershwin, Prokofieff, Bartok and Barber. It is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Wright joined the Westminster faculty a year ago, after having taught in Pennsylvania. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester. In 1960, he traveled through Mexico as an accompanist under the sponsorship of the U.S. and Mexican governments.

MUSIC AT PHS

Choir, Orchestra Ready. Young singers and musicians who are students at Princeton High School will present the first in a series of spring concerts next Wednesday, April 6, at 8 in the high school auditorium.

The featured work of the evening will be the Requiem of Gabriel Faure sung by the Princeton High School Choir under the direction of William Trego. Steven Pearson, baritone, and Susan Robinson, soprano, will be soloists. Accompaniment will be provided by an organ and orchestra.

The high school orchestra, directed by Miss Ann Friedman, will play the concerto for four violins and string orchestra by Vivaldi. Violin soloists will be Grace Mazurek, Lynne Friedman, Dana Meray Horvath and John Switten. Michael Reich will play the 'cello obbligato and Tim Mount the harpsichord.

In addition, the Madrigal Singers from the Choir will sing a group of chansons and madrigals from the polyphonic repertoire. William Trego will direct.

40 FOR WESTMINSTER

To Celebrate With Bach. Westminster Choir College will observe its 40th anniversary with a performance of the Bach B Minor Mass on Monday, May 16, in McCarter Theatre. Tickets are now on sale at McCarter.

The Mass will be sung by the Westminster Choir and the New York Chamber Orchestra under the direction of George Lynn.

Soloists will be Lois Laverty, soprano; Diane Curry, mezzo-soprano; Robert Simpson, tenor; Ramon Vyser, baritone and James McKeever, bass. All except Miss Curry are faculty members of Westminster.

The Bach Mass was performed 30 years ago under Leopold Stokowski at the dedication ceremonies for the Westminster Choir College campus.

OBOEIST IS SOLOIST

With Chamber Group. Robert Bloom will be oboe soloist with the Princeton Chamber Orchestra when the group plays in McCarter on Monday, April 11.

Nicholas Harsanyi will conduct. The orchestra, consisting of 21 players, has performed to critical praise ever since its debut in 1964.

ment building in East Windsor Township, has been more than two-thirds rented. The building is renting even more quickly than its sister apartment, Washington Towers, which opened last year.

Among the building's new features is a specially designed one-bedroom plus den apartment. Each unit is complete with private entrances, private balconies and individual air conditioners.

There will be a swim club for occupants as well as tennis courts, basketball facilities and a children's playground. Both one and two bedroom models are available. Rent starts at $125 and includes all utilities except electricity.

Wynbrook West can be reached by taking Route 130 to Dutch Neck Road which leads to the apartments. Those wishing further information should call Amron Realty, 448-4700. Model apartments are open from noon until dark.

NEW MODELS INTRODUCED

By Design for Living. Designed for Living Inc., Route 1, has announced that its 1966 line of custom homes will include a range of over 150 new and established designs.

J. Wendell Parr, president, said that unmounted variations of the basic plans are offered the buyer through the consulting services that are available as part of its complete program of home purchasing. In addition to its model display area on Route 1 just south of the Princeton traffic circle, Designed for Living maintains another in Hanover. It has built over 1,750 homes in a three-state area.

Mr. Parr commented that Designed for Living has concentrated on offering a standard of quality that included the most wanted buyer items in the basic price. He added that extensive market surveys reveal that a quality home must offer as standard features such items as oak flooring, full insulation, asbestos vinyl tile in the kitchen, full basements and warm air heating systems that are readily adaptable to central air conditioning.

News Of The CHURCHES

MISSIONARY LIFE BEGINS

For Princeton Girl. One of the first members of the Westerly Road Church Sunday school will be commissioned as a missionary this Sunday at the church.

Sandra T. Gordon, 25, and her husband Kent, 30, will leave on April 22 for India where they will work under the sponsorship of the Wycliffe Bible Translators and the Summer Institute of Linguistics of the University of North Dakota.

MISSIONARY: Mrs. Sandra T. Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Thompson of the Princeton-Kingston Road, will be commissioned as a Wycliffe missionary this Sunday in Westerly Road Church. Story this page.

Mrs. Gordon, a member of the Princeton High School Class of 1956, expects to be in India for five years, living among tribes in the State of Orissa on the east coast. She and her husband will study the language, record it phonetically and produce an alphabet. Then begins the long process of developing a written language. "Initially," she says, "it will be simple Bible stories and texts, health and literacy materials."

Her husband has spent two years conducting Indian dialect surveys among the Mixe and Totonac of Mexico, the Suomo of the Honduras and the Quiche in Guatemala. This year he has been teaching at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Gordon, who won honors in Latin at Princeton High School, was a Greek major at Wheaton College. She studied for two summers at the linguistics institute at the University of North Dakota and worked in Guatemala one summer assisting the Wycliffe translators.

"In India we will be working in connection with the state college which is interested in linguistic work. They will provide us with papers and contacts to make our entrance into a tribe." About 20 translators will be in the first unit to reach India, she says. "Some from Australia, Canada, Switzerland and this country."

Mrs. Gordon, who will be in Poona on the west coast until July when her baby will be born at the Scotch Presbyterian Hospital, has a story to tell about the Wycliffe Translators:

"Remember about ten years ago, that five white men were murdered in rage by the Auca Indians in Ecuador? Subsequently a Wycliffe worker named Rachel Saint entered the tribe and did linguistic work. She has just completed a translation of the Gospel of Mark. The result of her years there is that all of the killers still living have been converted to Christianity. They are members of the Auca Church which has been formed. Actually, those men have not died in vain as the years have shown. We know the Lord is with us."

HOLY WEEK TO BEGIN

On Palm Sunday. The most significant season of the Christian calendar begins this week with Palm Sunday. It leads through a solemn Holy Week that is climaxed by the triumphant feast of Easter.

Palms will be distributed in some of the churches on Sunday, in symbolic re-enactment of the Biblical account of Christ's reception in Jerusalem. Special music is planned by the choirs.

At St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, masses will be held at 6, 7, 8:30, 10 and 11:45 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Solemn blessing of the palms will be at the 9:30 a.m. high mass and palms will be distributed at all masses. At St. James R. C. Church in Rocky Hill, masses will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Methodist at Chapel. At Princeton University Chapel, the Rev. Richard H. Thomas, Methodist chaplain on the Wesley Foundation, will conduct the 11 a.m. service.

The blessing of the palms will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church during the 8 a.m. service. The Rev. Arthur J. Lockhart will be celebrant at the 9 a.m. service. The rector, Rev. Robert Spears Jr., will be celebrant at the 9 a.m. service; Fr. Lockhart will preach. At 11 a.m., a service to be broadcast over WIWH, Rev. Rugby Auer will be the celebrant and the rector will preach.

In All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Parish, the Rev. Charles G. Newbery will conduct the 7:30 and 8 and 11 a.m. services. The blessing of palms will be held at the first service.

"Facing the Challenge" is the sermon topic of the Rev. F. Hugh Alderdice for the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. There will be the sacrament of baptism at 9:30 and reception of new members at 11.

Themes for Sunday services at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be the parable of the lost sheep and Jesus' healing of the ten lepers. Services are at 11 a.m. and 8:15 p.m.

Palms will be distributed at the 11 a.m. worship at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Harold Thomas preaching.

The Rev. H. Dana Fearon will conduct the morning worship at Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. His topic will be "Following the Gemini." During the service, the reception of the sacramentals will be observed.

"Christ the Tiger" is the title of the sermon the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel will give at 9:30 and 11 at First Presbyterian Church. The four choirs will sing.

EASTER FILM SET

At Methodist Church. The Women's Society of Christian Service of Princeton Methodist Church will feature a film, "Holy Week in Jerusalem" at their 9:45 a.m. meeting next Thursday, April 7.

Car Wash. Senior Highs of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church will sponsor a car wash from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. this Saturday in the church parking lot, just off Main Street. Price is $1.50.

"Night and Fog." Young single adults are invited to attend a gathering at First Presbyterian Church from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. this Tuesday to view and discuss the controversial "Night and Fog." The Rev. Ralph Chandler is in charge.

Contemporary Catholicism. The Ned O'Gorman course in "Contemporary Catholicism" held after school at the Princeton Day School, will meet at 4:45 p.m. next Thursday, April 7. Topics will include the meaning of the new Holy Week liturgy. Students will also bring to class three press clippings which deal with what it means to be a Catholic, but which do not contain the words "Catholic," "church," or "God."

Freedom Festival

Passover, the week-long Jewish festival that reveals the exodus of ancient Israelites from bondage in Egypt and has gained new significance from the establishment of the State of Israel, begins at sundown on Monday.

Observances include services at the Princeton Jewish Center conducted by Rabbi Everett Gendler, and family feasts, seders, on Passover Eve.

There will be 10 a.m. services next Tuesday and Wednesday, also on April 11 and 12. An informal service will be held on Wednesday at 6 p.m. and on April 10, the seventh night of Passover.

Rabbi Gendler will conduct the 8:15 p.m. service this Friday. The speaker will be Professor Michael Walzer, Princeton University political scientist, who will discuss "Moses, the Hasidim, and the Puritans."

K. M. LIGHT REAL ESTATE

EDGEHILL STREET, PRINCETON

If you know this quaint wee street (hardly a house on it is later than 1900) you know the character of this charmful clapboard. Mildly and amusingly gingerbready on the outside, full of nooks and crannies inside, the house is not for those who like straight lines and obvious floor plans. Entry hall, formal parlor, study with outside entrance, dining room, good new kitchen, playroom, 5 bedrooms, 3½ baths, laundry room, paneled porch, deck—these are the vital statistics. It's how they go together that's the fun, and that is better seen than described! There's more fun on the outside — down at the bottom of the garden there's actually a green big beautiful barn! Quite unique as it stands, full of added possibilities for the imaginative, the house is offered at $59,500. Exclusively ours.

ENORMOUSLY APPEALING COLONIAL in the Johnson Park School district. Living rm., dining rm, with adjoining screened porch, efficient kitchen, 3 BR, 1½ baths, bright basement playroom with outside entrance. Shiny, bright & neat as a pin. Large lot with nice trees. $35,000

THREE ROOM APARTMENT for rent April 1. Small screened porch, parking, excellent in town location. $125

WITH THE DEMAND FOR 5 BEDROOM HOUSES, this one should not last long. It also has 4 other rooms, 2½ baths, all in excellent condition. Pretty, wooded ¾ acre lot. $36,000

TASTEFUL LITTLE WEST END HOUSE with the convenience of an apartment plus an enchanting, secluded terrace and garden. 3 BR, 2 baths. Quite elegant! $47,500

WOODED 1½ ACRE TOWNSHIP BUILDING SITE. Water, sewer, Johnson Park School district. $19,500

3 BR. COUNTRY CONTEMPORARY. Pine boards and batten, flagstone and whitewashed brick, railroad ties and white gravel, glass walls and dogwood! Privacy! $47,500

TIME MACHINE FOR SALE

Although plainly a 20th Century product there's nothing the least mechanical in its appearance, in fact you'll be entirely deceived by its mellow exterior of hand-split cedar shakes. But step inside and be miraculously transported to the early 18th Century. Everywhere you'll be struck by the warmth and satisfying simplicity of hand rubbed woodwork and panelling, random pine floors, beamed ceilings, antique brick hearths (3 of them), and wrought iron hardware. Three main living rooms include parlor, library and "keeping" room. Separate dining room and cozy kitchen. Four snug bedrooms and 2½ baths. Old fashioned Rumpus room. High on a Western Section hill with long woodsy vistas from every small paned window. If you appreciate the simplicity of a Windsor chair you'll certainly feel at home here.

SHE MUST CHOOSE BETWEEN US . . . : The Rev. James Morrell, played by David Byrd (left), confronts Eugene Marchbanks (Gregory Abels) and Marchbanks decides that Morrell's wife, Candida, must choose between them. The Shaw play is now in repertory at McCarter.

News Of The THEATRES

"CANDIDA" OPENS

At McCarter, To meet our old friend Candida Morrell again is to renew a warm and pleasant friendship: be settle down like a teapot in a comfortable tessony and watch again that familiar story of the Woman Who Knows Best.

For "Candida" is, in spite of the Shavian shavings, the direct lineal ancestress of all the women you see these days on television—the wives who are all-knowing earth-mothers, wise and profoundly understanding of their dear sweet husbands who are, after all, just Little Boys.

Ann Gee Byrd, who you might not think quite maternal enough for the part, is surprisingly well-cast. She is buoyant and amused, gentle even in the classic scene where she is "cruel" to Morrell, and certainly lovely to look at.

Her husband, David Byrd, is another surprise, although we should know Mr. Byrd well enough by now not to be surprised at his versatility. Shaw describes his James Morrell down to the last whisker, you will recall, and Mr. Byrd is Shaw's Morrell in precise antithesis: in not one single feature except height does he resemble the minister Shaw had in mind, but he is perfect in the part. In fact, Mr. Byrd's interpretation of the Rev. Mr. Morrell makes you believe more in the intensity and vision of the Socialist Christian pastor than the physical Morrell described by the playwright.

Well, inevitably we have to come to Marchbanks, and here we run into trouble. Gregory Abels, like all actors who play the part, is faced with the impossibility of being 18 years old.

In this production, he is not so much 18 as about 11 and due for a good spanking. Mario Siletti, the director, has encouraged him to flap around, leap on the couch and tuck his legs under him like a schoolgirl, wave his hands and his eyeballs fully and make, as Morrell rightly points out, a fool of himself.

Shaw has given him some amusingly adolescent "poetry" to say, it is true, but surely a young man of this temperament would be contained and intense, trying desperately to show his beloved Candida that he is a man, not acting like a sophomore who hasn't made the team.

Charlotte Glenn as Prossy, the adoring secretary, is a prim delight with her pulled-back ashen hair and granny specticles. We are still disturbed by Miss Glenn's voice which always seems to strain in a kind of high sing-song, but she is excellent in this role.

So, need we add, is Emery Battis as Mr. Burgess, one of those self-made men Shaw liked to peer at and comment upon. He has the wit, Mr. Battis has, to underplay the part and not let it turn into a Mr. Doolittle.

Charles Blackburn, the costume designer, and Myles

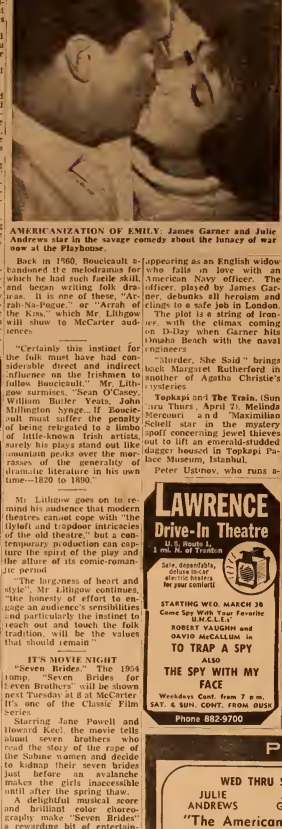
WHO'S HE

Boucicault. He influenced Oscar Wilde, he was pirated by Bernard Shaw and he inspired James Joyce—what else could an Irish writer wish for, except a press agent to tell the world how important he was indeed?

Dion Boucicault's rollicking Irish play "Arah-Na-Pogue" will enter the McCarter repertory this Friday. But whoever heard of Dion Boucicault?

Arthur Lithgow, that's who. Mr. Lithgow, who is staging this production, is the source for all this about Wilde, Shaw and Joyce.

Wilde based "The Importance of Being Ernest" on Boucicault's great success, "London Assurance" and Shaw lifted the trial scene of "Arah-Na-Pogue" for "The Devil's Disciple" and James Joyce took his inspiration for "Finnegan's Wake" from "Arah."



AMERICANIZATION OF EMILY: James Garner and Julie Andrews star in the savage comedy about the lunacy of war now at the Playhouse.

Back in 1960, Boucicault abandoned the melodramas for which he had such facile skill, and began writing folk dramas. It is one of these, "Arah-Na-Pogue," or "Arah of the Kiss," which Mr. Lithgow will show to McCarter audiences.

"Certainly this instinct for the folk must have had considerable direct and indirect influence on the Irishmen to follow Boucicault," Mr. Lithgow surmises, "Sean O'Casey, William Butler Yeats, John Millington Synge...If Boucicault must suffer the penalty of being relegated to a limbo of little-known Irish artists, surely his plays stand out like mountain peaks over the marrasses of the generality of dramatic literature in his own time—1820 to 1890."

Mr Lithgow goes on to remind his audience that modern theatres cannot cope with "the lyhrical and tripdoor intricacies of the old theatre," but a contemporary production can capture the spirit of the play and the allure of its comic-romantic period.

"The largeness of heart and style", Mr Lithgow continues, "the honesty of effort to engage an audience's sensibilities and particularly the instinct to reach out and touch the folk tradition, will be the values that should remain."

IT'S MOVIE NIGHT

"Seven Brides." The 1954 romp, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" will be shown next Tuesday at 8 at McCarter. It's one of the Classic Film Series.

Starring Jane Powell and Howard Keel, the movie tells about seven brothers who read the story of the rape of the Sabine women and decide to kidnap their seven brides just before an avalanche makes the girls inaccessible until after the spring thaw.

A delightful musical score and brilliant color choreography make "Seven Brides" a rewarding bit of entertainment.

PLAYHOUSE

Americanization of Emily and Murder, She Said (Wed thru Sat.) Re-runs of films that have appeared here before. "Emily" is set in World War II, with Julie Andrews appearing as an English widow who falls in love with an American Navy officer. The officer, played by James Garner, debunks all heroism and clings to a safe job in London. The plot is a string of ironies, with the climax coming on D-Day when Garner hits Omaha Beach with the naval engineers.

"Murder, She Said" brings back Margaret Rutherford in another of Agatha Christie's mysteries.

Topkapi and The Train. (Sun thru Thurs., April 7). Melinda Mercouri and Maximilian Schell star in the mystery spoof concerning jewel thieves out to lift an emerald-studded dagger housed in Topkapi Palace Museum, Istanbul.

Peter Ustinov, who runs away with the show, appears as the English-speaking guide who is down on his luck. An amazing show.

The Train, seen here last June, concerns a little-known but true incident of World War II. It is a fascinating cat-and-mouse tale of French patriots who try to prevent the retreating Germans from taking with them a trainload of museum treasures.

The protagonists are Burt Lancaster as the French engineer and demolition expert, and Paul Scofield as the German colonel in charge of the great theft. The battle of wits ends with an ironic question of values.

ONE-A-PENNY . . .

Hot Cross Buns? You can have the hot-cross buns if you like, and we won't blame you if you eat six in a row, they're that good, but we're taking another cinnamon roll, and if you'll just pour a bit more coffee.

The bakery is the J & B, relatively new and so good you'll go back for second helpings every time. It's located at 166 Witherspoon, near Forer's Pharmacy, and it's mercifully open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. every single Sunday, besides all the usual weekday hours.

That cinnamon roll! Moist, deeply flavored with cinnamon and sugar frosting and so light you have to eat it right now or it will simply blow away. No wonder it's so good: Bill Washington, the "B" of "J" and "B" (His wife, Jerry, is the "J") does every bit of the baking himself, and when we say "himself," we mean it: he doesn't even have a helper to lift the flour. The result is freshness, lightness, and uncompromising goodness.

Have a cookie? J & B thinks cookies ought to have some substance, and so "B" makes them more than four inches in diameter! Yessir, the chocolate chip cookies neatly laid out in the showcase tray were almost five inches across, five cents apiece. Butterscotch cookies, sugar cookies, fruit bars — how about a dozen of each?

Danish pastry is 10 cents apiece, and the day we were there, J. and B. had coconut or nut "Danish," so rich, moist and buttery you'll take a coffee break every hour just to have another.

Nut brownies, measuring two by three inches, are a dime each, thick with nuts and smoothed off with chocolate frosting. The eclairs, custard-filled, are 30 cents and the cream puffs a quarter.

Large pies are $1.75, small pies are $1.50. Sweetpotato pies are a specialty, but all the standard ones are available, too.

If you want a birthday cake, J & B. will bake one in any size from $4 to $7, even a big sheet cake. If you just want coffee and doughnuts for the neighbors, pick a dozen raised doughnuts, a dozen cinnamon, a dozen of the cake variety—eight cents each.

Coming down to every day, J. & B. has good white bread or Vienna bread, and Parker House rolls as golden brown as a sunraiden, and waiting only for the melted butter.

WHO'S BLUE?

Your Shoe. Color has been splashed all over everything at Nassau Shoe Tree. You'll recall when you shopped there for your going-south shoes, that color was in the wind; well, it's still blowing strong in the shoes you'll wear with spring suits and dresses.

Blue, for us, means the sky.

Non-Fez?

The dyed Easter egg, lovingly stenciled in the farm kitchen the Thursday before Easter, has gone the way of the washboard. Or so it seems.

LaVake's Easter Egg is an exquisite little charm to dangle with the rest of your Easter collection. Primrose Gift, around the corner, has eggs as encrusted with gold as a miner's heart. Stone's shows off its Limoges pillboxes and of course the Gourmet has sturgeon eggs for eating.

Cummins has alabaster eggs from Italy, smooth as Loren herself, and also real, true chicken eggs. Yep. They have been freed of yolk and white and decorated inside with charming little Easter scenes. Somebody certainly ate a lot of Eggs Benedict.

turquoise pump with deeper blue joins at the vamp loop. It has that slim mid-heel we think is so much more graceful than the broader ones you see this spring.

Celery green appears in a formal Palizzio T-strap (a slimming style, as you know) edged narrowly with avocado and turquoise, $25. Footprint's celery green is a kid matched with a dusty-pink underlay in the medallion design on the toe. This snoe has a low Louis heel and — a matching handbag. The shoe is $19, the bag $17.

Caressa's green is a hot lime with square vamp and toe and a square, no-nonsense leather heel. Grand for walking, and that color keeps it from being Sensible.

Pink? Sure! Here's a soft shell pink with wide and low Louis heel and a sling back with a cut-out and overlay of a color they call "coral;" actually, it's a strong Pink, Pink without the yellow undertone of coral.

Another shoe is made entirely of this lovely, free bright pink. It has a slightly open toe, a sling back and a long, flat bow that underscores the flippant freshness of the shoe itself.

Blending them all together, Jacques Levine comes up with a handscreened floral silk pump with a slender mid-heel, a sling back and the air of an aristocrat. $17. A bag matches, for $14.

Bags go along for the walk with many of these shoes. See the pale pink bag with its wash of plastic and its narrow, narrow handles. Or the cylinder of hand-crochet covered with a shell of pea-sized turquoise cut beads.

Bone is still happily with us. Shoe Tree shows its several times, starting with Palizzio's shoe with slightly rounded toe, and de Liso's Deb's bone with butterscotch collar, $20. di Scarla shows bone with a cafe au lait band around the throat and across the instep with a grosgrain bow like the ones they used to have on tapdancers' shoes.

The Silencers (now playing) Chinese agent Tung-Tze, from his underground headquarters masterminds a ring planning to divert an American missile so that it will destroy the atomic testing ground at Alamogordo, N. Mex.

Super-sleuth Dean Martin, as Matt Helm, leaves his bubble bath swimming pool and swings into action. The trail leads to a detecting scientist in Phoenix. Armed with some dazzling new weapons and a beautiful spy-mate, the great counterspy tangles with kissing killers and fiendish villains in a series of spectacular situations.

The film follows the distinct pattern of the spy spoof, bringing to the screen Donald Hamilton's fictional hero, Matt Helm, whose adventures have filled eight best-sellers. The pace is fast and the cast is excellent, including such beauties as Stella Stevens, Dallah Lavi, dancer Cyd Charisse and Beverly Adams. There's a brisk musical with Dean Martin doing the singing.

NEW STRAND

An Evening With the Royal Ballet (April 5 and 6) stars the electrifying Dame Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyev.

Filled in color at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, the ballets included are "La Valse" with music by Ravel, "Les Sylphides" danced to the music of Chopin, "Le Corsaire" with music by Drigo and "Aurora's Wedding" with its Tchaikovsky score.

Nureyev and Fonteyn in "Les Sylphides" offer one of the most famous achievements of the classical ballet. "Aurora's Wedding" is filled with the pageantry of the Russian ballet. "Le Corsair" reaches a climax in a series of startling leaps that spotlight Nureyev as the most exciting performer since Nijinski.

GARDEN

Oh Dad, Poor Dad (now playing) is an adaption of Evelyn Waugh's best selling satire on the American funeral ritual.

Robert Morse is a young English poet who arrives in Hollywood to visit his Uncle (played by Sir John Gielgud). His uncle loses his job and, penniless, hangs himself. Whereupon Morse is indoctrinated into the American way of caring for the remains of "the Loved one."

Jonathan Winters appears as the clergyman who owns a cemetery "Whispering Glades", and an animal mortuary. Rod Steiger appears as Joyboy, chief embalmer. Liberace is the unctuous casket salesman with a contemptuous disregard for "the middle price range." And Anjanette Comer is the funeral parlor's cosmetician who becomes the first female to be honored by promotion to the post of embalmer.

Performances are weirdly competent. A much better film would have resulted if director Tony Richardson had stuck to the original.

Navy or black for spring? See Shoe Tree's white classic pump with black-white polka-dot bow and lining, or the navy classics. The patent department has Palizzio's classic with Gilda bow and a honed-down toe to match the mood of '66.

WHAT SIZE, PLEASE?

R. Hall Hat 13. Women who wear a size three and women who wear a 24½ can be equally happy with the spring collection of coats and suits at Robert Hall. There is a store on Route 1 at Bakers Basin Road in Lawrence Township and another at 514 East State in Trenton.

That petite size 3 might be the daffodil yellow coat with Pilgrim collar and modified bell sleeve, or the white coat with its double collar and slanted pockets. (Lots of white this season; have you noticed?)

The 24½ could be the distinguished navy coat with the raglan sleeves and the collar that starts far back from the V-cardigan closing. It has two large navy satin buttons.

In the size 18 rack, we find a clear sky blue coat, part mohair in descent, with flap pockets, narrow collar and a pleasing casual air not often found in larger sizes.

Prices, by the way, are around $17.95 to $24.95 for spring coats.

In suits, we find, for $15.88, a two-piece wool with a brief cape, slightly longer in back, made of a hot green nubby fabric piped narrowly with black leather to match the black shoestring belt. It comes in navy or white, too.

A pale and pretty pink three-piecer of $19.95 has a deep U-neck which displays to fine advantage the soft bow of the crepe blouse, even paler in pink, if preferred.

Balloon sleeves caught in a tight cuff just below the elbow characterize a rayon - cotton suit woven like a smooth hopsacking. There's a V-neckline with a narrow, round collar and a bright China blue color to brighten anyone's Easter morning. It's $12.95.

Same fabric, different style, cherry pink, this time, with a deep and round collar and four-inch self-ruffles at the elbow sleeves.

Little girls — size 10 — will wear "Little Miss Robin" with "fur" collar and cuffs in the same pink or blue as the jacket. The matching skirt has box pleats.

For $9.97, Robert Hall has a

Parking Shortage Exists.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The parking facilities at the Princeton Junction railroad station have become inadequate. Lately the parking lot is full after the 8:55 p.m. train so that all who come later are in trouble.

We must choose between risking a parking ticket for parking in a no-parking zone or looking for space a great distance away. After receiving a ticket I have been carrying a flashlight for the long hike after dark along unlighted streets.

It is my impression that the parking lot is filling up so rapidly all of a sudden because the no-parking regulations are being enforced more often. Suddenly dozens of cars that were formerly parked in the no-parking zones are being placed in the lot.

If the situation is so bad now, what will it be like in a year or two? There should be planning now for the future while there is still undeveloped land near the station.

Motion Seconded.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Congratulations to Mr. Allen W. Hartley for his letter "Keep the Kids Occupied" (March 24, 1966) and to Town Topics for using what is probably the most poignant letter you have had the pleasure of publishing in years!

Arrogance, in any form, at any age, at any level, always deserves exactly what it too seldom receives — a well-placed boot in the rear.

The one redeeming note in the tragic situation in Viet Nam is that it may be helping quite a few of our young men along the road to character and maturity, a road which their parents seem not to have traveled.

Lions Clarify Position.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter to Donald Barr, Director of the Joint Recreation Board of Princeton:

The Princeton Lions Club asked me to write you a letter concerning the question of a lounge for the Princeton teenagers.

Over the past several months Mr. Harold Ostroff, Chairman of our Boys and Girls Committee, has received correspondence from teenagers in the community regarding a lounge. After a program presented by Rogers Carrington on the problems of the young people in Princeton, the Princeton Lions Club formed a committee to look into the need for a lounge.

As you knew, the Princeton Lions Club has always been interested in Princeton's young people. As evidence of this interest, the Princeton Lions Club recently donated $1,000 to the Princeton Study Center for Remedial Reading Material and Equipment.

Also, each year we sponsor a Scholarship program at Princeton High School. As of this time our scholarship program is committed in excess of $4,000.

The Princeton newspapers have recently carried articles about the lounge which imply a commitment by the Princeton Lions Club. To clarify the positions of the club, we have not committed ourselves in any manner at this time. It is important that we not be misunderstood.

We are interested in the lounge program and the youth of our community, but the direction that this interest will take will be announced by our members at a future date. In order for our club to accurately understand the needs, we would appreciate it if all pertinent information could be forwarded to us for our study.

Schools Need Merger.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I know that many of us in the Borough hope that the sentiment voiced in the February elections in favor of merging our two schools systems will soon be translated into action. It seems unfortunate for everyone that so much time and energy should have been expended recently in discussing the well-intentioned but cumbersome recommendations of a committee set up prior to this clear indication of pro-merger sentiment in the borough. Now that the township board has apparently laid these recommendations to rest, it is to be hoped that the duly-elected board in the Borough will move ahead with real merger proposals on the basis of the mandate they received in February and will provide constructive channels for the civic enthusiasm demonstrated in that remarkable electoral turnout.

I am not one of those who view consolidation and gigantomania as the answer to all the problems of our time.

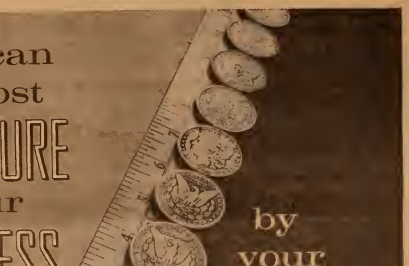
You can almost MEASURE your SUCCESS by your SAVINGS


Somewhere in the life of every successful man and woman is a simple secret. They saved a part of all they earned.
Putting aside a part of all you earn is the best advice anyone can supply. The saving habit goes farther than money, of course. But to have money for a "rainy day" is your secret of success.
Here at your very own bank, the saving habit grows painlessly. As you earn your wages or salary, slip as much as you can into your savings account. You won't miss it and it will grow and grow.
And in addition to your growing deposits, we pay you to save. Every dollar earns interest regularly, earns its way over and over again.
You may never save yourself rich, but you will have that feeling of success that comes from saving.

but this particular education merger seems necessary if our schools are to remain competitive with the best in the years ahead, and if our children are to be assured both the quality and the diversity that they will need in an increasingly complex world. It is time that our community rose above petty perspectives and retrospective recrimination and focused our energies on positive and common tasks. I believe that a majority of borough residents favor this merger and would like to see the process begun without further dampening delay.

Miller Plan Defended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was astounded at the precipitous action taken by the Township Board of Education in regard to the Borough Board's proposal of modified K-12 regionalization known as the Miller Plan.*

As chairman of the sub-committee who studied and recommended this idea for joint development by both Boards of Education, I feel it necessary to clarify several statements made at last week's meeting.

The December draft was sent to Mr. Grace at my suggestion. I had hoped that comments by the Township Board would be of great value in planning new legislation.

In mid-February the latest revision of a modified K-12 plan, incorporating new ideas and including a joint nine man board, single superintendent provision, was presented. Again, a copy was sent for Township Board comment in a closed session meeting. This was the proposal recommended by the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Considering the time spent in discussing the original referendum, it seemed this most recent proposal has been interred with undue haste by the Township Board of Education. Indeed, the "Miller Plan" may have faults, but perhaps they are ones that could be overcome or eliminated in joint action now by those vitally concerned with keeping Princeton public education at a high level.

The plus features are obvious: community cooperation, a comprehensive high school curriculum and common-sense cost. All it needs is consideration.

Typographical Error Corrected.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In your recent article about the Youth Employment Service of Princeton, you stated that YES had helped 13 students with scholarships ranging from $100 to $6,000. We fervently wish that we could give financial aid up to such a handsome sum! In actuality, thanks to the generous support of the Princeton Jaycees, we have in the past year awarded 13 scholarships ranging from $100 to $600.

The YES scholarship program provides funds primarily for non-college training. We feel that by helping young people to obtain specific skills, which will enhance their chances of success in the employment world, we can offer a modest but valuable supplement to other sources of scholarship aid in the community.

Nursery School Defended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Eighteen years ago I wrote my first letter to the Princeton newspapers. This is my second. The subject is the same.

At that time I was a young widow, fortunate to have rewarding work and, more important, the Princeton Nursery School where my then two-year-old son spent his days.

I remember the burden of my message then was that my mind and heart were at ease: I knew Joe had the tender, loving care all two-year-olds need, the discipline they likewise need, the fun youngsters get from being with others their own age, good food, and a careful eye on his physical well-being. (And all these perhaps in even greater measure than I might have supplied had I been a full-time mother.)

As many know, though I no longer live in Princeton proper, I have maintained a close relationship with the school in the years since. (As has my son, who is now a college student in Connecticut.)

Things haven't changed. The same T-L-C, discipline, fun and all the rest are there. Yes, improvements can be made — and lots of them.

More space would solve many problems for the staff and the 40 youngsters now served. And more space would allow the school to provide its own brand of "Head Start" to more children each year. Year-round operation would indeed be a boon to many.

My quarrel is not with bringing to the public the fact that improvements would help the Princeton Nursery School better serve the community. But rather with the "image" of a C-rating (however footnoted) and its implication of "so-so."

These of us who have been privileged to have our children attend the Princeton Nursery School know that it isn't "so-so."

IMPROVEMENTS SOUGHT

By Students at PHS. Members of the Princeton High School student government have presented a series of proposals for improvements at the school to the Board of Education:

The suggestions, narrower in range than those submitted in previous years, include:

● Deodorizer for the boys' locker room (cost $289.95) presented by Michael Smith, president of the student board.

● Shades for the girls' gym ($125 each), presented by Mary Anne Cook, vice-president.

● Replacement or repair of 380 12-year-old chairs in the cafeteria. (the Board will explore fibreglas backs and seats) presented by Curt Mitchell.

● Trophy cases to make room for the recent awards (cost $750), presented by Gail Pool.

● Outdoor bulletin board to inform general public of school events cost $275-$300 presented by Louise MacDonald.

● Storage building near playing fields for sports equipment (cost $2500), presented by Rich Stewart.

● Polaroid camera equipment for student publications and publicity, suggested by Margaret Anderson. The students were informed that the school has one they may borrow.

● Better arrangements for the spectator bus hired for out-of-town sports events, also requested ticket sales by the Student Exchange, presented by Thom Yoder.

Equipment proposals were referred to the Board's committee on buildings and groups, headed by Thomas Moore. The remaining items will be explored by Superintendent Chester R. Stroup and Kenneth Michael, principal.

INCOME TAX DEFEAT DEBATED: The defeat of Governor Hughes' state income tax bill was a mistake in the eyes of George Olsen, who felt such a tax was needed in New Jersey and that it had the added attraction of being the fairest. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question. What is your reaction to the defeat of Governor Hughes' income tax bill?

Where asked: Nassau Street

George Olsen, Griggstown, salesman for Prince Chevrolet: I was sorry to see it happen because I felt we needed something like this to help meet all the demands of the state, particularly in education. I'll go along with a sales tax as an alternative but I would have preferred an income tax. I think it is a fairer tax.

Joseph Gnaedi, Robbinsville, psychology department, Princeton University: Good! I'm in favor of it. I prefer the sales tax because I think it's fairer. I realize the money is needed; that's why I wouldn't be opposed to a sales tax.

Mrs. Carolyn Hingher, Laurel Avenue, Kingston, secretary: I'm kind of glad — they take so much out now. I'd prefer a sales tax or a state lottery, a lottery preferably; I think it's a good idea. I think a lot of people from out of state would support a lottery, too. A lottery is sort of like getting something for nothing, it's less painless.

Fred Carson, Quincy, Mass., graduate work in chemistry at Princeton University: My feeling is that New Jersey is in serious financial difficulty. Perhaps as bad as Massachusetts where I'm from. I feel the officials in this state should take some responsibility in solving this problem. They're acting in a rather irresponsible manner. I think the only true broad base tax possible is the income or sales tax so it looks as if a sales tax is the only alternative.

Ben Warren, Bayard Lane, production assistant: I'm happy to see it thrown out, myself, but I realize we are going to have to get the money somewhere. I see where they're considering a sales tax now and I don't think I'd be opposed to this.

Mrs. Glenn Mohrman, Cherry Valley Road, housewife: Surprise and disappointed. I felt it was necessary, that we needed it for better schooling and this was one way to get it. I think an income tax hit those who could afford to pay whereas a sales tax hits everybody. It includes too many people who can't support it completely.

John Tannehill, 206 Nassau Street, graduate student, political science: Bad. I think its obvious the state is going to have to have a broad base tax if it hopes to meet its educational needs and a number of other things, particularly education. There's no other way to get it. If they don't quit fooling around and put one in, I don't know what's going to happen.

Leon Gibson, 173 Laurel Circle, minister, Princeton Methodist Church: I recognize the need of a tax and I would expect a sales tax, certainly, will take its place. One or the other has to be.

Mrs. Gerald Garvey, Faculty Road, housewife: I think it is a real tragedy for New Jersey. A sales tax is disasterous obviously because it is inequitable. The state obviously needs money from somewhere for education. I don't know where it ranks in the amount of money it spends on education but it is pretty low. You'd expect this in the South but not in a semi-metropolitan state on the east coast.

G. Gerald Donaldson, Trenton, teacher at the Hun School: I don't think anybody would be unhappy about not having to pay more money, but I was disappointed. I think it is inevitable that we are going to have to have some kind of broad base tax and I, frankly, prefer an income tax to a sales tax. I'm afraid of a sales tax. It's not equitable. An income tax is geared to one's ability to pay.

Mrs. Louis Pensak, 119 Random Road, housewife: I'm just . . . frustrated! I was definitely in favor of it. I'd pull for another broad-based tax if there's no other choice but I'd rather an income tax. You could pay it all at once and it is fairer to people with lower incomes.

David Mosher, Kendall Park, graduate student, plasma physics: Very unhappy because I feel N. J. is in a very bad way. It needs some sort of broad base tax for aid to education especially. My wife teaches in the South Brunswick school system and I can tell you that the budgets they have to work with are worth a tinker's dam. I think a sales tax would be good for a place like New York where a great deal of people who do their buying don't necessarily live in New York. I don't feel a sales tax would be beneficial to New Jersey. Also, it places a larger burden on those who are poorer. An income tax, being graduated, is much more reasonable. I would still like to see an income tax in New Jersey.

How To Survive

Is is a surprising fact that many of the highway dramas that wound, maim, and kill many thousands annually occur because drivers "this once" forget or disregard safe driving habits. It is frightening fact that often the driver doesn't know the "why" himself. Emotional attitudes, fatigue, discontent and other psychological factors are known to be safety hazards. For survival's sake, be aware that extremes of weather, humidity, the drumming of rain on a car top, take a sometimes hidden toll of your energy, as can irritating fabrics, odors, sounds. Be wary of the highways after hurried meals, tense meetings, or worry sessions, and for your best interests in all ways, let us serve you. style and the use of museum lighting, plants and bright, vibrant colors against a background of white walls provide unusual impact.

The tour will also visit the colonial-style home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoxence, which is furnished with "country pieces" and reproductions. Also on on the program is a unique 17th century home belonging to Claude Kagan and George Furnish and the nearby barn which contains a theatre and a museum of communications devices.

Tea will be served during the tour hours at the Hopewell Museum. Tickets are available from Mrs. Robert Iuse, 737-2578, and Mrs. George Drake, 466-2262. Proceeds will be used to establish a scholarship for area girls going on to higher education.

FEES GO UP

For Homemakers. The women known as Homemakers who step into a family when the mother is out of commission, will now receive $1.50 an hour, a raise of 10 cents from their previous pay.

"The raise is necessary to maintain qualified personnel in today's competitive market," said Mrs. Benjamin M. Wright, chairman of the Board of the Homemaker Service. The Service is a United Fund agency.

"Homemakers presently serving with the service certainly deserve and have earned the raise" she added.

The additional 10 cents will be charged to families who use the service, Mrs. Wright said. Last year, the Homemakers gave 19,399 hours to 279 families.

Capable women who can take over in a home when the mother is ill or unable to carry on, are urgently needed by the agency. A special training program will be held during the week of April 18 for women who would like to become Homemakers. All women who are interested should call Mrs. Elizabeth Craig, executive director, 924-2366.

ABOUT THAT CAUCUS

Boys in "Legislature." Two Princeton boys represented the community at the annual Hi-Y Youth and Government program held last Friday and Saturday in the legislative chambers of the State House in Trenton. The program is sponsored by the YMCAs of New Jersey to give high school juniors and seniors a chance to participate in an exact model of the New Jersey legislative process.

The boys are Bob Chenicek, 466 Riverside Drive, and Sandy McKee, 62 Gulick Road. With their fellow legislators, they sponsored bills prepared by their respective Hi-Y clubs before the start of the program, and then attempted to get the bills passed through the normal legislative channels.

Some of the bills "passed" by the legislature were an income-tax bill, a reapportionment measure, a bill promoting higher education and an act abolishing capital punishment.

Mrs. Smoyer's appointment reflects the high standing of the Princeton Unit among the 16 in the nation. Founded eight years ago, it now has more than 375 volunteers working under a small salaried staff. It contributes steadily to the ever-increasing volume of educational material prepared free of charge for use by the blind.

Dr. Melvin M. Tumin, 119 Fitzrandolph Road, has been elected to the presidencies of two major professional societies, the Society for the Study of Social Problems and the Eastern Sociological Society. Professor of Sociology at Princeton and a faculty member since 1947, Prof. Tumin will become president of the former in September and of the latter in April, 1967.

Dr. Peter L. Carlton, 32 Cuyler Road, took part this week in a three-day symposium on drugs and brain function in animals and man, held in Washington, D. C. He is associate professor of psychology at Rutgers University.

FIRST LACROSSE GAME

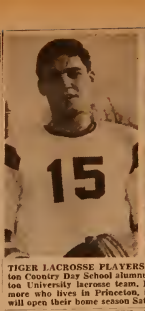
Tigers Fare Johns Hopkins. A Johns Hopkins team that badly wants a victory over an Ivy League opponent will open Princeton's home lacrosse season Saturday on Campbell Field. The Bluejays saw a 6-1 half-time lead over Yale vanish last week as the Elis rallied for a 12-10 upset, and will be extremely eager to top Princeton's defending champions in revenge.

Game-time is 2 o'clock, and Coach Ferris Thomsen will be hoping for better defensive play than he saw when the Tigers lost their first game last weekend to Maryland at College Park. It was a 12-7 final, "although the game was closer than the score indicated," Thomsen said.

"Maryland has an outstanding attack, but we helped out by giving away five or six cheap goals," the Tiger coach reported. "Our midfield play was weak defensively, but Graeme Flanders was excellent in the goal, and on an overall basis, I was pleased with the game."

Injuries suffered before and during the contest left the Tigers short of valuable personnel. Attackman Bob Mueller continues to be slowed by a chronic knee problem, although he is expected to play against Johns Hopkins Saturday.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for classified advertising is 924-2200



TIGER LACROSSE PLAYERS: Bob Mueller (15), a Princeton Country Day School alumnus, plays attack on the Princeton University lacrosse team. Dick Reynolds (51), a sophomore who lives in Princeton, is a promising goalie. Tigers will open their home season Saturday against Johns Hopkins.

BASEBALL OPENER SET

With Villanova Wednesday following a week of action in the Rollins College Tournament at Winter Park, Fla., Princeton's baseball team will open its 1966 season here next Wednesday. Game-time against Villanova on Clarke Field is 4 p.m.

The Tigers will be busy weather permitting, with five games on the schedule before their Eastern League opener against Cornell on April 16. New Hampshire will play here next Thursday at 4, with Rider, an NCAA District II entry in 1965, at Clarke Field the following Saturday. Manhattan and Seton Hall are due the following week, preceding the contest with Cornell.

Princeton's defense of the Rollins Tournament championship began auspiciously when veteran lefthander Tom Scott hurled Eddie Donovan's nine to a 2-1 triumph over Maine. The Tiger senior, 9-3 last season, had a no-hitter until the sixth, when the losers produced two hits and their only run.

Phil DeSantis opened the Princeton scoring in the second when he walked and advanced on Joe Luongo's sacrifice. Sophomore third baseman Mike Paulaitis promptly scored DeSantis with a single.

Frank Biondi, starting his third year in center for the Orange and Black, tallied what proved to be the winning run in the third. He doubled sharply to left center and came all the way around when the Maine left fielder let the ball get away.

Princeton's triumph stamped it as the team to beat in the tournament, since the Tigers' victory was recorded over Maine's Joe Ferris. Two years ago, Ferris was named the most valuable player in the College World Series at Omaha. Rollins was a 5-0 victor over Rochester, fourth team in the tournament, in the opening round.

FISCHER ON MOUND

In PBS Opener Friday. When the Princeton High School baseball team takes to the field for the first time this season against visiting Cathedral Friday afternoon, it will be bolstered by a veteran battery. Southpaw Chris Fischer will be on the mound and Lou Balestrieri behind the plate. Both are starting their third year as varsity performers for coach Harry Zoll.

Commented Zoll: "It's the first time in a number of years that I've been able to name my starting battery this early."

Three positions still remain to be named before that first pitch: second base, third and one of the outfield slots.

Chief contenders at second are Tom Yoder and Jack Van Zandt and, at third, Tim Haigh and Rich Volz. Van Zandt, a senior and Volz, a junior, are good glove men but Zoll indicated he will be guided largely by who does best with a bat.

"Everyone is still in the ball game," said Zoll. "I still have time to look every boy over and I intend to keep an open mind right up till game time."

Wood starting at first base, Captain Bill McQuade at shortstop, and Don Juberg and Curt Mitchell in the outfield. The latter three are being counted on by Zoll to provide much of the power.

At this early stage, it appears that one of the stronger segments of the Little Tiger squad is its pitching. There were signs that it may be strengthened further with the unexpected appearance of Bill Cirullo.

Cirullo played on the freshman team and then decided he could profit most with his natural speed as a track performer. After spending two years in the oval, he has decided to return to the diamond where he has displayed promise of developing into a capable relief hurler.

The opener will start at 4 How well the Blue and White will do is still too iffy to predict. So much depends on whether Zoll has any consistent hitters on the squad — one of the basic ingredients for which he has been searching the hardest.

Aided by some complaint weather, the squad has been able to practice more than in past years. "It seems to be coming along fine," remarked Zoll. "The potential is there, but you never know about high school ball. With a little hitting, I think we can do something this year but we'll just have to wait and see."

The schedule: April 1, Cathedral; 5, Steinert, away; 15, Ewing, away; 16, Lawrenceville, away; 19, Hamilton; 21, Trenton, away; 22, Hun; 25, Ewing; 27, Cathedral, away; 29, Asbury Park, away.

May 4, B.M.L., away; 6, Asbury Park; 10, Steinert; 12, Franklin; 17, Notre Dame; 19, Trenton; 23, Hamilton, away; 27 Somerville, away; 31, Hunterdon Central.

OPENER HERE TUESDAY

For PHS Track Team. Princeton High School will open its track season Tuesday afternoon at 4 against visiting Steinert. Two days later, it will travel to Ewing for a duel meet but after that, it breaks for spring vacation and will not resume until April 20.

As he did last week, Coach Jerry Groninger was echoing his observation that the team has quantity, but "the big thing is lack of experience. It will make it difficult to plan any tactics," added Groninger.

"They'll have to learn pace, timing, when to hold back and when to make their move in a race which will hurt them against more experienced boys." With a few exceptions, most notably the hurdles and the javelin, PHS will field a team that is eager but untested in the remaining 11 events.

Quarter-mile candidates are David Moomaw, Peter Pifield, George Odoerfer and John Westefeld. Among the middle distance runners are Mike Conant, Craig Wood, Ronald Jamieson, Gordon Crane and Ken Weeks. All are untested.

In the sprints, Groninger is looking for help from two former football backs, Eddie McEwen and Jeff Bullock. Each is also expected to compete in the broad jump. Robert Way is the chief hope in the pole vault and high jump.

In the shot put, the list is headed by veteran Carl DeCalvacante. He will get a lot of help from Tony Arcaro and John McKeever, who like Carl, are former football linemen, and Jim Blazakis. In the discus it will be Don Corrington, Tim Mount, Stan Forgue and DeCalvacante.

"The potential is there," said Groninger commenting on the shot and discus, but all are a little bit off in their timing."

Groninger added that he was encouraged by the potential he saw in the freshmen candidates, numbering close to 50. "Right now," he said, "we're engaged in a sorting out period, trying to assign boys to different events.

"Outside the sprints, the varsity is fairly well set. We'll be strong in the javelin and shot and fair in the discuss. The big thing, as I said, is lack of experience. We've had six dual meets during the winter and that's helped some but it's not the same as running on a four-lane track."

The schedule: April 5, Steinert; 7, Ewing, away; 20, New Brunswick, away; 22, Bridgewater-Raritan, away; 23, Penn Relays; 26, Franklin; 29, Trenton, away.

May 3, Notre Dame; 6, Pennington; 7, Lower Branch Relays; 11, Mercer County meet at Trenton; 14, South Central Jersey IV at Ewing; 16, Somerville; 18, Highland Park, away; 23, Hamilton, away; 25, New Brunswick Invitation; 28, South Jersey Group IV at Asbury Park; 31, Greater Jersey Conference at Union; and June 4, State Meet at Rutgers.

SPRINGDALE HONORS TWO

Misses Dennen and Regan. Honorary membership in the Springdale Golf Club was extended at the March meeting of the board of directors to the Misses Grace Dennen and Margaret Regan. Their election was in recognition of their 43 years of play there and makes them the first two women to join the ranks of the honorary members.

Ten members, all men have been singled out for this honor in the past. Among them are Dr. Harold W. Dodds, Sen H. Alexander Smith and Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

Both Miss Dennen and Miss Regan have retired from their positions as secretaries at Princeton University. As secretary in the Department of Classics, Miss Dennen was associated with Dr. Robert Green, President of Princeton, and Dr. James Armstrong, President of Middlebury. Miss Regan was for many years secretary to Dr. Dodds while he was President of Princeton.

While only weekend golf was possible for the two women while they were still working, both managed respectable handicaps. Miss Dennen's was 21 and Miss Regan brought hers down to 19.

The course layout has been remodelled in major fashion only once since Miss Dennen and Miss Regan first played Springdale in 1923. At that time, however, the Princeton Inn did not dominate the scene as it does now.

Construction for it began in 1924.

FILM CENTER TAKES ALL

In Industrial League. Film Center ended up with all the marbles in the YMCA Research and Industrial League.

It defeated Hospital, 71-55, in the final game to finish one ahead of second place ETS. It then went on to top RCA in the deciding game, 81-61, to win the Shaughnessy Playoff.

In that final playoff game, Tony Boccanfuso, Bryan Smithy, John Smithson, Bill Stryker and Kerry Klink all hit double figures for Film Center. The big men for RCA, without question the most improved club in the league at the end, were John Dunn and Pat Syms with 20 and 18 points.

RCA reached the finals with an upset 54-53 squeaker over ETS, as Jim Clark and Syms tallied 16 each. Paul Harmon, who ended up with the league's highest average—24.7 a game—picked up 20 points for ETS. Western Electric forfeited its contest with Film Center.

Final league standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Film Center	13	2	.867
ETS	12	3	.800
Western Elec.	9	6	.600
RCA	6	9	.400
Van Nostrand	3	12	.200
Hospital	2	13	.133

ST PAUL'S WINS CROWN

In CYO Grammar School League. St. Paul's School, winner of the southern division of the Trenton CYO Grammar School basketball league with a 10-1 record, met the winners of the northern division, Blessed Sacrament, last week at the CYO gym in Trenton before a capacity crowd of 500. St. Paul's won, 53 to 36.

Captain Mike Maguire, the alpha and omega of St. Paul's poured in 29 points—his average in the three playoff games. Harry Nordon added 10. These two plus teammate Mike Tomlinson were named to the southern division all-star team.

To reach the finals, St. Paul's defeated Our Lady of Sorrows, 41-29, and Holy Cross, 49 to 26. Maguire paced both attacks, scoring 28 and 30 points.

The latter victory was particularly satisfying to the Princeton quintet as Holy Cross was the only team to defeat St. Paul's in league play. St. Paul's grabbed an early 12-6 first period lead with Maguire accounting for all 12.

The team finished with a sparkling 32-3 overall record, and it marked the first time St. Paul's had gone beyond the semi-finals in league competition.

For Maguire it brought to an end a career which began in second grade when he scored his first two points. As an eighth-grader he had increased that to 769 points in one season, 393 of them in league play. The son of police Lt. Francis Maguire, he heads next to Notre Dame high school.

WEISS HONORED

By Coaches' Association. Irwin Weiss, physical education director at the Nassau and Witherspoon Schools, was honored Saturday in New Brunswick by 1200 members of the New Jersey Interscholastic Coaches Association. He received a pleque for outstanding contributions to the coaching profession and athletics.

While guiding Princeton High School track teams to a string of 98 consecutive dual meet triumphs, Weiss in 27 years compiled a record of 276 victories and 17 defeats. His teams won numerous sectional championships and five state track and field titles, and he was coach of two PHS basketball teams which won New Jersey championships three decades ago.

He is past president of the Coaches Association, and of officials' associations in football and basketball. Weiss has officiated at school and college sports for 35 years. He is currently coach of the field events for the Princeton University track team.

TRYOUTS SCHEDULED

For Little League. This weekend is the last chance for boys from 9 to 12 to try out for the West Windsor Little League. Boys who have signed up should report to the league field Saturday or Sunday at 1 to register.

Managers will make up their rosters next week, and the season will get underway early in May. League president Dick Ward will announce final plans at the monthly meeting on April 18.

BOWLING NOTES

Ed Hughes Rolls 256. The top single game recorded last week at the Princeton Recreation lanes on Nassau Street was a 256 by Ed Hughes, who rolls in the Three-Man Classic League.

Bill Flock had the high series of 639 on games of 193-222-224. Eric Weissenburg had a 602, his highest game a 213. Other high scores: Dick Fowler, 225, and Guido Zinetti, 208-212.

The stability in the standing continues with Decker's Dairy maintaining a comfortable 61½ to 53 lead over second place Johnson Electric. Turney Motors is third at 46½.

Balestrieri (38 wins) moved into a third-place tie with Nassau Del in the Princeton B League. Ivy Inn held on to its first-place position, four games in front of Renwick's, which has 40 wins.

Jim Kahny was the most effective bowler, notching a 635 series on games of 220-193-222, while Ed Duncan rolled a final 218 game to earn a 612 series. High single game scores were John Baldino's 229, Bill Kieser's 227 and Al Hibbard's 203-223.

In the Nassau League, Bill Dumble rolled a 244, 23 pins better than the second-best 221 by Santo Tocco. Otto Olsen followed with a 218 and Bob Cifelli and Richard Pinelli each had 215.

The Alfonse-Gaston routine between Grover Lumber and Decker's Dairy for first place saw the two reverse places as Grover Lumber again climbed to the top rung, a position it had yielded last week to Decker's. The margin is 46 to 44 wins. Cifelli Electric is tied with Decker's for second place and Brophy's is third, four wins behind.

Giants in Ivy League?

Three of the New York Giants five exhibition football games will be played next summer on Ivy League campuses. Coach Allie Sherman will bring his team to Palmer Stadium on August 27 for its annual meeting with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Giants, who last year moved up from last place to a tie for second in the NFL's eastern division, will open their exhibition schedule on August 6 against the Pittsburgh Steelers. The game will be played on Cornell University's Schoellkopf Field at Ithaca. Two weeks later, the New Yorkers will oppose the Detroit Lions in the Yale Bowl.

Other games are scheduled for August, Weiss has officiated at school and college sports for 35 years. He is currently coach of the field events for the Princeton University track team.

Hook and Ladder "L" (40 wins) lost ground in the Tri-County Firemen's League. It dropped from a third-place tie to a fourth-place tie with Hook and Ladder "H". Mercer No. 1 Princeton No. 1 and Kingston are 1-2-3 with 53, 46 and 42 wins.

A 241 final game pushed Bill Davalt to a 616 series. He was hampered by a 163 second game. Dave Wilbur had a high single game of 221, and Gib Ireland, Vincent Ross, Elmer Wilson and Harry Kahny all had 201.

A 189 by Helen Tamasi was the high mark in the Business Women's League. Close behind were Sara Rose, 186-173, Marilyn Sylvester, 176, Sandra Marx, 172, Janet Grover, 171, and Loretta Seulerati and Eleanor Pinelli, 170.

Nassau Cenover still has first place all to itself with 30 wins. Trailing are Claridge Liquor (26), Young Ages and Mackenzie Realty (both 24).

In the Blue Angels Hi-Y League, the noteworthy scores were Mike Skillman, 188, Tom Wood, 174, Brandon Stechini, 177, and Craig Donaldson, 176. Wildcats lead in the standings with 26 wins. Hunters and Tigers are second and third with 18 and 16.

 SAM PANICARO*

Fifty thousand times a year, the Princeton University Store risks disappointing a customer . . . but thanks to Sam Panicaro's infallibility in checking our customer's special order books, this doesn't happen. Mr. Panicaro is one of the key people "behind the scenes" in our Book Department. His baliwick is the Book Receiving room where all of the U Store book shipments are processed before reaching the display shelves. Thousands of books weekly are received, checked and catalogued with the necessary efficiency required for such a voluminous operation. Sam's conscientious attitude, attention to detail, and experience are your guarantee of satisfaction in this very important area of our Book Department service. Sam Panicaro exemplifies the Quality, Integrity and Service rendered by the Princeton University Store.

A good vacation, according to Sam, would be a fishing boat out on the briny sea, or a comfy chair and a TV set tuned in to his favorite teams' sport. In his more serious moments, Sam devotes his free time to activities in his church, the American Legion organization and serving as Borough Councilman in his home of Rocky Hill.*
